The poem opens the collection, and its first stanza is quoted here in English translation for readers who do not know the original language.

Yehuda Amichai, from שירים 1948-1962

The second paragraph continues with a discussion of the translation choices and the publishing history of the book in several countries.

- Level one item.
  - Level two item.
    - Level three item whose text is long enough to wrap onto a second line, mentioning the Hebrew name ירושלים and the phrase בית ספר as it goes, so that a line reaches the right margin.
    - Another level three item that names חנות ספרים and continues with more English words so the line is full again.
